THE ELECTIVE FRANCHISE. The ballot-box is a bulwark erected for the protection of the people—destroy this citadel and anarchy and confusion follow. There will be no protection for the tax-paying people. The bulldozing of the Radicals with a view of electing a President by stifling or subverting the ballot-box have aroused the people, who demand that there be greater protection to the ballot-box, and that the votes of freemen be counted as they were cast. Governor Thomas A. Hendricks, in his pecent message to the Indiana legislature.

Will calch other, and shaking hands, and the following were among the most prominent atterances: "Thank God, I have lived to see Florida once more free!" "George F. Drew is our governor, God bless him!" "I feel that I am free once more, and am ready to die." Weary, were sang by the choir. These were the company of the recent message to the Indiana legislature, says: "The laws regulating our elections require your special attention. They do not restrain the corrupt nor protect the votes of the people. Our elections must not become a reproach. Their result must express the will of the people Our system must be made) . so efficient as to guarantee purity in the conduct and management of the elections, and also to inspire and establish public confidence. When the people know a political result has been fairly brought about, all discostent dis-* 1-ppears; they cheerfully acquieses and yield entire obedience to the authority thereby established. I cannot now attempt to suggest all the provisions that may be essential to an efficient system, but without the following no system will probably prove efficient." We hear the same complaint in nearly all the States. They were sent by Grant, the same complaint in nearly all the States. gent laws for the protection of the ballot-box The present legislature of Tennessee should look into this matter, and devise some means for restraining fraudulent voting in Tennessee, and especially here in Memphis. Our city is located in the corner of three States, and the facilities for fraudulent voting are great, and in every election unscrupulous itterang heres fait to send thomselves of these facilities. As evidence of this we have only to refer to the vote of Randolph in the last election. A careful analysis of the vote will show that in nearly every ward he received hundreds of fraudulent votes. In the first ward the frauds are patent. The poll-books show that many negroes voted who never resided in the ward, and these same hired repeaters voted in other wards. Some of these repeaters have confidentially confessed the swindle, and will make oath to that effect at the proper time. We agree with Governor Hendricks that stronger guards must be thrown around the ballot-box. Parity in elections inspires obedience to law. Corrupt the ballot-box, stifle its voice, count out the candidates who received a majority, and elect the minority candidates, and the people entertain a contempt for laws enacted by villains who secured their positions by fraud. A pure election creates respect for officials and the law under which they act or which they enact for the protection of society. It is a fact worthy of note that the corruption of the ballot-box is only attempted by the Radicals. Returning boards are the contrivances of Radicals to retain power. They are the inventions of carpetbaggers. No northern community would tolerate for a single moment a returning board with power given to four knaves to A northern man by birth and a Union man from principle, I recognize that the Democracy of Florida, in placing me in this high position, demonstrate their desire for a true and fraiternal union of all sections of our that the action of the Hampton government in providing for the lunatics, orphans and convicts releved him of his greatest embarrassment, and he was gratified that the Democratic tax-payers and other charitably disposed persons had assumed the care of these unfortunates. Chamberlain does not think that this voluntary contribution of taxes will have any effect whatever in deciding who is the misrepresentations that have persistently been made as to their positions. The people of the south impose implicit confidence in these two distinguished champions. They know that at the right time the voice of both will be heard on the right side and that they will exercise the influence they have acquired by prudence and wise statesmanship for the protection of the liberties of the people, the safety of the republic and to avert the great calamity of war. The idea of any Democrat that the chosen constitutional agents of the catarrh souff, a sure cure by this new antiprotection of the liberties of the people, the calamity of war. DREW'S INAUGURATION.

The Most Memorable Event in the History of Florida-An Immense Crowd Present and the Greatest Possible Enthusiasm Exhibited.

The People Beside Themselves with Delight-The Democratic Party will Faithfully and Honorably Carry Out all its Pledges of Reform and Good Government.

Tallahassee, January 2.—I telegraphe on to-day of the inauguration of Hon. leerge F. Drew, the D. mocratic governor leet of Florida. The inauguration took lace from the east step of the place from the east steps of the capitol in presence of over five thousand people. When the governor made his appearan upon the steps in company with Chief-Justice Handall (who administered the oath of office) the welkin was made to ring with the joyous shouts of the vast assemblage of the repre-suntative people of Florida, who realize the fact that truth so long crushed to earth had risen again clothed in her mantle of liberty of great was the desire of the vast crowd to do him honor, that as soon as he had finished reading his message he was taken upon the backs of the people and carried to his office within the capitol. Every one seemed eager to do him some honor, and well they may, for a truer man or a finer specimen of man is not within our State; a meaning the morning were Daniel Drew, Thurlow Weed, Augustus Schell, Rev. Dr. John Hall, Marshal O. Roberts, Cyrus W. Field, Governor Morgan, Samuel Ward, and Chauncey M. Depew. The procession from the house to the church was an account of the church was account of t

It would have done your heart good to have witnessed the grand spectacle, and to have heard the remarks are the full for the family and relatives and friends. The casket was borne and to have heard the remarks as they fell from the lips of the overjoyed people, as they were moving around and congratulating each other upon their delivery from Stearns and Radical rule. Oh, sirs, it outside the chancel, the only flowers on it bewas truly grand! The people were rejoicing with each other, and shaking hands, and the

I am free once mere, and am ready to die.
One old gentleman, near eighty years of age, said to me: "This is worth all it has cost us and ten thousand more." The writer saw two old men standing with clasped hands, the tenrs rolling down their faces, and their hearts too fall for utterance, and one of them pointed to Governor George F. Draw, and said: "There he is; he has saved us, and I love him." To-day has been a memorable epoch in the history of Florida, and I tell you we have very great cause to rejoice, for we have fought a very hard battle against the most formidable set of "brigands" that ever lived in any country—Purman, Stearns, Dennis & Co., backed up by the powers at Washington with bayonets and money, and yet the hardest fight was after the election before the canvassing board and the courts. We say "honor to our courts," for they did their duty, and will long be remembered by a grateful that the commodore's favorite hymns, and Dr. Deems said he had often seen tears roll down the cheeks of our friend while listening to the latter. Carriages and sleighs joined the procession as it moved slowly down Broadway. Three ferryboats took about sixty carriages on Hall, Tilden and Hendricks.

Inaugural Address. The following is the full text of Governor brew's inaugural, every word of which will e lived up to by the people of Florida:
Fellow-Citizens—Having taken the oath d office as prescribed by the constitution, I am about to enter upon the grave and re sponsible duties appertaining to the position f chief magistrate of Florida. The will of the people, as legally expressed at the ballot-box, has been enforced by the mandate of our highest judicial tribunal, and it must be a arce of supreme satisfaction for every citizen to feel that, whatever results may flow from the excitement of political contests, he has the broad shield and the protecting arm of an impartial judiciary as the final arbiter of his rights. And the quiet and entire sub-mission of citizens of all parties to the decision of the supreme court is the surest guarantee that we are a law-abiding people, resolved to perpetuate free institutions, and to remains, which were encased in a metal cas-ket, were laid in the large hall and viewed by friends, visitors, and a deputation of two hundred and fifty of the attaches of the New York Central and Hudson River railroads. The floral offerings were of the most simple char-acter, and all attempts at display were studiously avoided. A large crowd witnessed the removal of the remains from the house to the church, which were carried on a bier by six
